

LOS ANGELES

LA RESTAURANT NEWS LA RESTAURANT CLOSINGS

The Coffee Table Ends Its 20-Year-Run in Eagle Rock This Sunday

2,

Increasing rents and slowing sales plagued the longstanding coffeehouse

by Mona Holmes | Nov 7, 2017, 12:20pm PST

The Coffee Table

After 20 years, The Coffee Table in Eagle Rock serves their last coffee on Sunday, November 12. Owner Brett Schoenhals made the announcement for one of LA's oldest coffeehouses on their Facebook page.

Citing rising rents and slowing sales, The Coffee Table is another casualty of LA's expensive operating costs. This closure represents the end of an era for The Coffee Table. Long before Eagle Rock was a hot neighborhood, Zamarripa and Schoenhals established a comfortable cafe where locals gathered to write screenplays, study, or grab a bite to eat. The owners were also Silver Lake pioneers on a sleepy stretch of Rowena Avenue, long before Broome Street General Store opened their doors in 2011. The Coffee Table in Silver Lake was evicted after a 14-year-run by the Fifteen Group, an investment group that bought the property in 2011.

The Coffee Table's statement on Facebook reads:

The Coffee Table Eagle Rock ✓

12 hours ago

It is with a heavy heart that I must announce The Coffee Table will be closing down forever. Our last day of operation will be Sunday, November 12. It has been a great honor to serve the Silver Lake and Eagle Rock communities for over 20 years. We will be selling our signature mosaic tables, the money going to the employees. I will post more details as they become available. Thank you to the thousands of customers we have, it has been a great privilege.
Brett Schoenhals

- Silver Lake Coffee Table's New Owner Has Mixed-Use Plans [Curbed]
- Silver Lake Coffee Table Closing For Condos?, Another Leaky Lawsuit [Curbed]